Export Documentation Checklist

Revised 2026-09-06

Prepared for every shipment

Standard export documentation is prepared for every order:

- Commercial invoice
- Packing list
- Certificate of origin
- Phytosanitary or health certificate
- Bill of lading

Confirmed for your specific order

These are confirmed in writing against your requirement before you commit to anything:

- Product specification sheet, for the varieties you are buying.
- Caliber confirmation, from the published range for that variety.
- Packaging specification — format, fill and pack configuration for your volume.
- Label information — what your destination market requires on the label, and what we need from you.
- Incoterm and lead time, for your port and volume.
- Additional documents specific to your destination market's requirements.

Duty, tariffs and HS classification

Import duty and tariff treatment — including the correct HS classification for table olives in your destination market — varies by country and can change. We recommend confirming the applicable HS code and duty rate with your own customs broker for your specific market rather than relying on a general figure. We would rather you got that from someone accountable for it in your jurisdiction.

Still being established

Stated plainly rather than left for you to discover:

- Partner-facility certifications — being verified against the actual certificate documents. No certificate name, number, issuing body, scope or validity date appears on our site until that check is complete.
- Destination-market approvals — requirements differ by market and are confirmed per destination during quotation.
- Lot and shipment traceability detail, and the exact quality-check records supplied with a shipment — confirmed during quotation. We are a newly established export company and would rather agree these with you per order than describe a routine we have not yet run at scale.

> Tell us your destination market and we will confirm exactly which documents apply.
